

Villanueva, Daniel Kenneth

I elected to put my own ID on the left as a visual description of who I am because my school life is pretty much the main part of my identity.

I have been thinking that I should be a civil engineer in the future so that I could work in the government while using my skills to help it.

I do not know for sure what I should be doing in the future nor how I would become a civil engineer working for the government. Nevertheless, I still believe that continuing my studies is beneficial because even the path to becoming a civil engineer would give me important skills and lessons.

I see myself now as simply about the same level as my peers because the course work in college is more intense and I no longer received accolades such as representing my school in the Metrobank-MTAP-DepEd Math Challenge.
